Supt U. S. Mint,

Dear Sir,—

We have in our family relics a $5.00 Continental scrip.
I should judge from the appearance of it, that is was genuine.
I found in looking over Evans' Illustrated History of U. S. Mint on page 133 bills that reads very near the same as this of ours.
The number is 74102 I think but the note is worn that figures are rather indistinct.
There are also two signatures on bill one in red ink I cannot make out, the other

RG104 E-1 Box 161

in a large Land- R. Tuckins.
On the back of the bill are his large leaves enclosed in a square.
Also on back is printed
"Printed by Hall & Sellers" Philadelphia Pa. 1775"
What convinces me the bill is genuine is because it contains silk threads, and what I should call mica as those particles glisten in a strong light.
Can you give me any light
on this subject?, if so, please favor by an early reply

Yours Very Respectfully

Supt. U.S. Mint,

Dear Sir, -

We have in our family relics a 5.00 Continental scrip. I should judge from the appearance of it, that it was genuine. I found in looking over Evans' Illustrated History of U.S. Mint on page 133 bills that beads very near the same as this of ours. The number is 74102 I think but the note is worn that figures are rather indistinct.

There are also two signatures on bill one in red ink I cannot make out, the other in a large hand – R. Luckuiss. On the back of the bill are this large leaves enclosed in a square.

Also on back is printed "Printing by Hall & Sellers Philadelphia Pa. 1775"

What currencies use the bill is (genuine) is because it contains silk threads, and what I should call mica, as these particles glisten in a strong light. Can you give me any light as this subject? If so, please favor by an early reply.

Yours Very Respectfully,
